Additional Notes: A Blade is prepared from a Forequarter by following the natural seam between the Ribs and Scapula. The Blade consists of a number of muscles lying caudal and ventral to the spine of the scapula and scapula cartilage and caudal to the humerus. The 2 long sides of the cut are approximately parallel, one along the spine of the scapula and the other over the ribs of the Chuck. The dorsal aspect of the Blade is cut perpendicular to the line of the scapula ridge, approximately 4 INCH from the junction of the scapula and scapula cartilage. The exposed Tendons at the level of the shoulder joint can be removed.

Manufacturing Specification: FOLLOW SEAM WHEN REMOVING FROM BOLAR
